In a controversial speech, President Jair Bolsonaro called for an end to mass confinement. The guidance goes against actions imposed by governments around the world. Just yesterday, the UK decreed a three-week quarantine and the Tokyo Olympics were postponed until 2021 as a way to combat the pandemic.

The president's speech generated a lot of repercussion in the Senate and the House. Another relevant topic that has provoked debate is about the use of the electoral fund - resource used to fund the election campaigns - deputies and senators do not rule out the release of R $ 2 billion to combat coronavirus.

Even with the president's speech, states maintain the restrictions imposed on quarantine and the actions determined by state and municipal governments intensify as a way to contain the spread of the virus.

MARKET

The United States has approved a plan to release $2 trillion to combat the effects of the pandemic on the economy. The proposal still needs to be detailed, and will proceed to Donald Trump's sanction. The announcement received immediate response from international markets. The Tokyo Stock Exchange closed up 8.04%, and oil prices continued to recover in Asia. China's Shenzhen and Shanghai indexes rose 3.22% to 2.17%, while Hong Kong rose 3.81%. In Brazil, the Ibovespa closed Tuesday up 9.7%.

TOURISM

Travel distributors in Brazil sent yesterday (24), new letter to President Jair Bolsonaro. The content reveals that MP 927 is insufficient for the maintenance of the sector and demands more effective actions to help the industry. Abav, ABRACORP, Braztoa, Cia Brasil, AirTKT, Aviesp, Belta, Abeta, Brasil CVB and Fenatur were representatives of ADIBRA, ABIH, BLTA, FBHA, FOHB, Resorts Brasil, SINDEPAT and UNEDESTINOS, which call for more energetic measures, since parks and hotels are closed.

CRUISES

MSC and Costa Cruzeiros suspended operations until the end of April, as a way to prevent the spread of the new coronavirus. The cruises that are in progress from both companies closed their itineraries and new shipments should take place from April 30.

AIRLINES

Alexandre de Juniac, Managing Director and CEO of IATA (International Air Transport Association) called on global governments - especially those in Latin America and the Caribbean - to assist airlines with direct financial support, loans made by the government or central banks and tax exemption. According to the association, the sector generates 7.2 million jobs in Latin America and the Caribbean and contributes US$167 billion to the region's GDP.

DESTINATIONS

There's good news from China. The Wall of China has reopened a small stretch for tourists to visit. The country has begun the process of phasing out quarantine and already feels some positive effects on tourism.
